Second suspect arrested in drive-by shooting

BY RICHARD MEEK

A second man was arrested late Wednesday in connection with the July 4 drive-by shooting at Buccaneer Park's day area.

Adrian Whavers, 20, of Pass Christian, was arrested Wednesday by Waveland police, police chief Jimmy Varnell said. Whavers was charged with aggravated assault. Earlier Wednesday, Bradford Laneaux of Waveland was arrested and charged with aggravated assault. Both are free on $5,000 bonds.

Varnell said Whavers and Laneaux allegedly opened fire on members of an alleged Picayune gang called the Reds.

who were picnicking in the crowded park. Varnell said Whavers and Laneaux had a previous altercation with the gang members at The Roundtable in Picayune, allegedly over a woman.

"Apparently, (Whavers and Laneaux) were there to finish it," Varnell said. "It was sheer coincidence (Whavers and Laneaux) ran across (the gang members)."

Varnell said "it's a miracle no one got shot," since crowds were estimated at close to 5,000 people. However, he added that despite the large crowds, there were no eye witnesses.

Bay city plan sent to P&Z

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis City Council members said last week they've wasted too much time formulating a comprehensive plan for the city's future.

They tossed the document - and related papers - in the lap of the Planning and Zoning Commission for further study, public hearings and an ultimate recommendation on how to proceed.

Council agreed to set an Oct. 1 deadline for the commission to return the plan with recommendations. Officials said a public hearing probably will be set for early September.

The draft plan has been in the making for a year. It's a 25-year road map for the city's development and will serve as the foundation for a new zoning ordinance.

Nine months ago, Continental Consultants of Jackson gave council a preliminary draft, and asked for "feedback" from council members before putting the plan into a final proposed form.

The draft has mostly languished on council's table since then, although council members have made some major suggestions for revising parts of it in workshop sessions. Most notably, some council members have sought to restrict casino development in the city to the existing Casino Magic enterprise - an idea city legal staff say won't stand up in court.

Based on comments from a meeting several weeks ago, Continental Consultant's Corrine Fox rewrote the preliminary draft in hopes of reflecting council's general consensus on key issues.

Following council's previous instructions, she renamed the initial plan's "casino" district as a "resort" district, but she kept the boundaries intact, encompassing Casino Magic's development and the Cedar

Flag raising

History was made this past week at Ship Island. For the first time since 1858 the flag of the State of Mississippi is once again flying over Fort Massachusetts. By proclamation of Governor Kirk Fordice, in conjunction with the National Park Service, on June 30, members of the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks, and National Park Rangers, added the flag of the sovereign State of Mississippi to the American flag on the flag pole at Fort Massachusetts. History reveals Ship Island was ceded to the federal government in 1858. Since that time the only other flag to fly over the island was the first Confederate "Bonnie Blue" flag in April 1861. The island was captured by Union troops shortly after and the American flag has flown over the island ever since. The Mississippi Department of Archives and History cleared the way for the proclamation by Governor Fordice.

Bay waiting for answer on beach renourishment

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Still hoping to get some financial help from the county, Bay St. Louis city officials deferred action Thursday on bids to build a downtown sand beach.

Mayor Eddie Favre said the city would present its case in detail this week to the county Board of Supervisors, which administers countywide seawall tax collections and disbursements.

Favre said while supervisors' initial response to the city's request was on the negative side, he hopes to convince them the project can be funded in part from next year's tax collections. The seawall tax is a 3-cent levy on gasoline sold within Hancock County.

Favre said the tax fund has been running a surplus of $150,000 to $200,000 annually. Expenses from the fund include debt service on a $2.3 million general obligation bond issue that paid for recent renourishment of 4.4 miles of beachfront between Washington Street in Bay St. Louis and Dane Street in Waveland.

In addition, county officials are planning to pay for construction of two parking lots on the new beach from the tax collections, as well as comfort stations on the waterfront in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

City officials have sought for more than a year to create a beach stretching northward from the Booker Street area to Bay View Court. The seawall in that area is unprotected from erosion, except for patches of marsh grasses.

Bids to pump a 200-foot-wide sand berm along the stretch were opened last month, with a low quote of some $560,000. With engineering fees and contingencies, the total tab for the city project mounts to almost $700,000.

The city has budgeted $250,000 this year toward the project.

In a related discussion Thursday night, city Attorney John Scafide said all property owners from Bay View Court to the southern edge of the Casino Magic tract at the Highway 90 bridge apparently are willing to sign construction easements allowing a seawall protection project to proceed there.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers wants to build a protective structure offshore to halt drastic erosion that has eaten away at the shoreline in recent years.

Objection to the project from some private property owners has stalled that project, however. Scafide said private property owners involved in the area have been "cooperative" in granting the requested easements.

Cellular phones spark controversy

BY RICHARD MEEK

Cellular phones spurred a heated debate at the Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting Wednesday.

Alderman Jay Fleuriet objected to a procedural move involving putting on the minutes the addition of a phone for Mayor John Mason. Also up for approval was the purchase of a phone for public works employee Wayne Wise. The addition of the two phones brings to eight the number of cellular phones owned by the city.

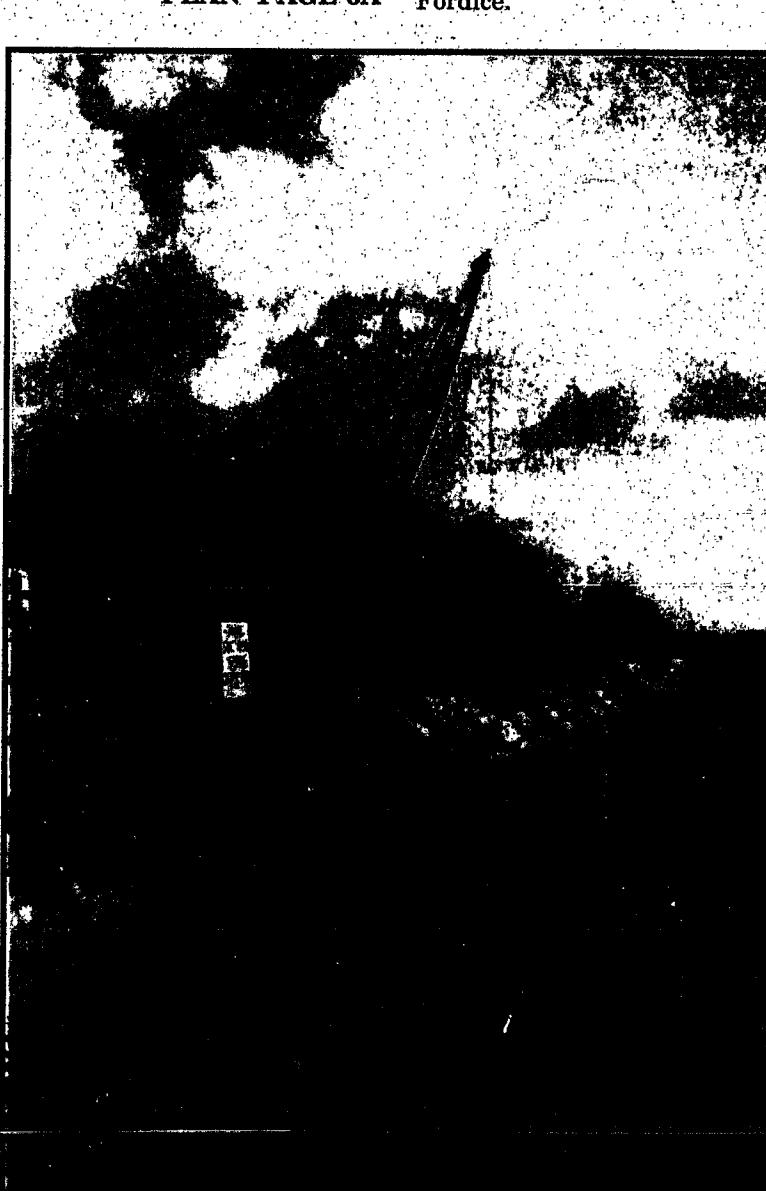

Fleuriet said he was not objecting to adding the phones, but was concerned the city had no policy in place regarding their use. Fleuriet proposed that each employee be assigned a monthly allowance, and any cost above that would have to be paid for by the employee.

"I am just trying to be a conservative steward of the money," said Fleuriet, a theme he repeated several times in a heated debate with Mason and Alderman Louis Smolensky.

"We are giving carte blanche on the cellular phone bill," he said. "We are talking about unlimited use with no detailed billing."

"This is not a personal thing,

Roadblock nets arrest of fugitive

BY RICHARD MEEK

State troopers arrested a New York man wanted for murder at a roadblock set up at the foot of the Bay Bridge in Harrison County Friday night.

Master Sgt. Dave Kenny of the Mississippi Highway Patrol said the man was arrested at one of the several roadblocks troopers had set up along the Gulf Coast over the weekend. The roadblocks were set up to check for traffic violations, especially checking for individuals driving with expired or invalid licenses. Also, troopers were checking for drunk drivers.

But the pot sweetened in Harrison County when the fugitive pulled up to the roadblock. Kenny said the suspect originally refused to reveal his identity. Once he did, it was discovered through a check that he was wanted for murder in New York. Kenny said he is an alleged member of a drug cartel. He will be extradited to New York, Kenny said.

Kenny said troopers wrote 300 tickets and arrested four for DUI through 3 a.m. Saturday at a roadblock set up at Highway 603 and Interstate 10.

The Bay Bridge roadblock netted "300 to 400 tickets and five or six DUI arrests," Kenny said. Those numbers were also through 3 a.m. he said.

Kenny added the Highway Patrol was patrolling Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties throughout the weekend. He said troopers were strictly enforcing the speed limits on area highways and citing all violations.

The patrols began at 3 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. The roadblocks were set up at approximately 10 p.m. and shut down at about 4 a.m., according to Kenny.

He said the Highway Patrol does this type of intensive effort about "once a year, sometimes more."

He said roadblocks are set up at sites where high incidents of accidents have been recorded.

He said this year's patrol was dedicated to Trooper Bubba Wells. Wells was killed while issuing a speeding citation several weeks ago in northern Mississippi.

He will be extradited to New York, Kenny said.

Aldermen reject three P&Z recommendations

BY RICHARD MEEK

The Waveland Board of Aldermen reversed two Planning and Zoning Commission recommendations and sent a third back for reconsideration at the board meeting Wednesday.

The motions also sparked a discussion on what constitutes a quorum and if the commission acted within its rights.

The board granted approval to R. J. Melancon Jr.'s request for a 21-foot variance from the required 25-foot rear yard setback in order to build a workshop at his Dane Road residence. His request had been denied by the P&Z.

Alderman Al Kingston spoke on Melancon's behalf, saying Melancon had torn down an old building that was only "a foot" from the property line.

"The new building will be four feet off of the property line," Kingston said.

He said the new addition will enhance Melancon's property, as well as the entire neighborhood.

Kingston's request for approval passed unanimously.

A similar situation arose when Robert Henderson petitioned the P&Z for a variance of 13 feet from the required side yard building and seven feet from the rear yard building to build a carport. His request was also denied.

Alderman Louis Smolensky said he polled the neighbors and heard no objections to Henderson's request. Smolensky's motion to approve Henderson's petition passed 3-1, with Jay Fleuriet the dissenting vote. However, Fleuriet had voiced no objection during the discussion.

The P&Z also turned down Shirley Tingstrom's request for a variance of two feet, eight inches from the required front yard building set back and 15 feet from the required rear yard set back. Alderman Tommy Longo said a compromise had been agreed upon but that he wanted to send it back to the P&Z for its approval.

Kingston said he was not challenging the credibility of the P&Z. But he added that only two voting members, Bruce Northridge and Mick Quinlan, were present during the meeting and questioned if that was fair representation. Northridge and Quinlan voted against all three requests.

Chairperson Jane Keen was also present, but she only votes in the event of a tie.

The commission is made up of four members and Keen. When questioned, city attorney Lucien Gex said three members, which may include Keen, must be present for a quorum. A meeting cannot be held without a quorum.

The aldermen suggested that in the future, if only two members are present, any action that requires a vote be tabled.

In other matters, the board:

— Approved the receipt of nearly $25,000 from the State Department of Public Safety.

The money may be used for the purchase of equipment, technologies, supplies and in other activities for crime prevention.

The program was set up by the legislature.

Police Chief Jimmy Varnell will prepare a budget on how to spend the money.

— Approved the advertisement of bids for the printing of a brochure designed as a guide to permits, fees and service for business and homeowners. The resolution calls for the printing to be "published by a Waveland printer."

Mason said the brochure was completed in-house, and only needs to be printed.

— Agreed to purchase a 1993 Jeep Cherokee for $2,412. The Jeep was seized during a drug arrest, Mason said. He said the owner, as part of a plea bargain, agreed to sell the vehicle to the city for only the amount remaining to be paid on the lien.

Mason said the vehicle will be used for the city's new canine unit.

— Mason reported the Attorney General and Governor Kirk Fordice gave final approval amending the city charter to provide for a full-time mayor in Waveland. Previously, the position had been part-time.

Supervisors learn about Hancock children in Forrest

BY MARY G. SEILEY

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors appeared stunned Wednesday to learn that a children's shelter in Forrest County is inundated with cases from Hancock County.

In the first five months of 1995, the board was told, 26 percent of the shelter's population came from Hancock County, a "drastic increase" over previous years.

Margaret Reed, program director for the private, non-profit shelter, said most of the Hancock youths are placed in the facility by state Department of Human Services workers. The children are abused, neglected, homeless or runaways, she said. Many have been removed from their residences and placed in the shelter by DHS.

"Maybe we ought to be in Hancock County," instead of Hattiesburg, Reed told the board after detailing the statistics.

"Something's wrong," Chancery Clerk Michael Nease said when learning of the high Hancock population at the facility. "...You're doing a great service, but we need to out of money."

Problems arose because of trade-ins. What was supposed to be a full-year's worth of tag credit value in many cases turned into a couple of month's worth.

For instance, a citizen gets a $200 tag credit in January when registering a new car. He trades that car three months later, and registers another, receiving yet another full year's worth of car tag credit.

Murtagh said in such a case the car owner should refund the state nine months' worth of the credit received on the first car. Then, nine months credit is available the owner on the cost of the second car.

Murtagh said all of his staffers who deal with car tag sales will be attending a special school in Jackson this month to learn details of calculating the credits and refunds. The new system, he said, is effective July 17.

'CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

A very important American Red Cross Blood drive will be held Monday, July 10, from noon until 6 p.m. at the Casino Magic Inn.

The drawing is for Marilyn North, daughter of D.W. and Mattie North, who was recently injured in an auto accident and has had to undergo several surgeries.

Miss North still has more surgery to come.

D.W. and Mattie have been involved for many years with the Hancock County Blood Bank, and at this time sure could use some help with the drive.

If you are able to donate a unit of blood, I am sure they will greatly appreciate it.

So, remember the special blood drive tomorrow from noon to 6 p.m. at the Casino Magic Inn.

This afternoon will be an opportunity to meet the candidates at the American Legion Post No. 58 on Highway 603 North at the Standard Community.

In less than one month we will be having the primary elections.

Politics are beginning to hum at local and state levels and should be going strong through the general election in November.

I have a feeling there will be a lot of races settled by only a few votes, as there are some very qualified candidates.

Several candidates have really been making the rounds seeking votes while visiting the qualified electors.

Some tell me they have already worn the soles off their shoes.

Remember to mark August 8 as the primary election day and go to the polls and vote.

Shaw's bill to suspend marine diesel fuel tax

A senior member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Clay Shaw (R-Fla.), introduced legislation that would help resolve a federal regulatory problem that has made it difficult, if not impossible, for many owners of diesel-powered recreational boats to obtain fuel.

The Shaw bill, H.R. 1956, would suspend for two years a 24.4 cents per gallon tax on diesel fuel used only by recreational boat owners in order to give the Treasury Department time to develop a less burdensome means of collecting the tax.

Treasury Department regulations issued last year mandated that marine diesel fuel be dyed — red for non-taxed commercial use and clear for taxed recreational use.

This has caused distribution problems in many parts of the country where marine fuel retailers — who often have one diesel tank and pump — are forced to make a choice between selling to either commercial or recreational customers. The tax was levied by Congress in order to raise revenues to offset the repeal of another ill-conceived tax — the 10% luxury tax on boats, furs and jewelry.

The work at Keesler will include a range of maintenance, repair and minor construction consisting of building, residential, heavy and highway work.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Networking in business lacking for African-Americans

Mart in Indianola... always as an employee.

A year or so ago he was offered the management of the Sunflower Store and took it to get a chance to learn the food business.

His vision now is to organize a group of financiers and form a company to own several grocery stores in the Delta, where he sees a great need for black entrepreneurship.

One route he is considering is through the new federal empowerment zones which were created three or four years ago under legislation pushed by then-U.S. Rep. Mike Espy to aid business development in the economically distressed Lower Mississippi region centered around the Mississippi/Louisiana/Arkansas Delta.

But for an African-American from the Delta to have a good shot of succeeding in business, Alexander realizes, takes a little extra boost. That is where Affirmative Action comes into play. There are certain intangibles, such as "networking," which are readily available to the dominant white business society that are not available to the black community.

"I don't believe in handouts," he says, "but African-Americans have never been welcomed to the business community with open arms and don't benefit from the 'perks' of networking in a competitive arena."

The existence of the "glass ceiling" that females have complained of also hangs over blacks is his point.

Some have tried to steer him into organizing his business venture through loan programs of the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development, but his preference is to go through the private sector... if he can.

"I am a very successful store manager, and I have been saving capital to own my own business, and when I do I hope my company will be considered in an unbiased business community," he said. But he added, "Having a certain percentage of a contract designated to stimulate minority business does not create less opportunity for other Americans."

Alexander had spent ten years in retail merchandising for several well-known chains in both Louisiana and Mississippi, winding up with Wal-Mart.

His dream is not to just become owner of a retail business, but also to provide good-paying job opportunities for other African-Americans in the Delta. Can he succeed?

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Foreign aid cuts not deep enough

Congress is shortchanging the American people when it pushes a foreign aid spending bill that makes absolutely no sense. Because the House leadership, led by Speaker Newt Gingrich, is so anxious to pass a veto-proof aid bill, Congressional leaders have turned a deaf ear to those in Congress who demand deeper cuts.

What really troubles me is the fact that this year America will borrow about $200,000,000,000 to make ends meet. America will slow the rate of increase for medicare and medicaid. America will also downsize certain veterans programs rather than expanding them.

For example, when Congress is having trouble passing a pro-veterans bill that would allow our veterans to use their medicare payments at military hospitals, how on earth can the Congress of the United States justify to the American people spending $12 billion a year on foreign aid?

The excuse Congress gives veterans is that we don't have the estimated $2.5 billion needed to pay for the plan. However, we didn't even touch the $3 billion in aid to Israel and $2.1 billion for Egypt in this year's foreign aid bill — two fairly wealthy countries.

If we don't have the money to take care of our veterans with an expanded health plan as simple as this, then shouldn't those countries that receive the lion's share of foreign aid also have to sacrifice as well?

I have absolutely nothing against Israel, Egypt or any other country that receives foreign aid. But when all Americans are being asked to tighten their belts, there is no way in good conscience I can give away $12 billion in foreign aid without a fight.

BREWER'S WORLD

By Jimmie Brewer

Good morning folks, how's your limb hanging on this fine sunny day in paradise? Let's rise and shine, shake and bake, show some teeth and live it up!

I've discovered an excellent alternative to capital punishment recently. In fact, if the quickly diminishing Los Angeles jury should find O.J. Simpson guilty, I have the perfect incarceration to fit the crime: strap him in the same vehicle as my nine-year-old son and 11-year-old daughter and send him non-stop on a 13 hour road-trip.

I can assure you that one of two things will happen. He will either commit suicide sometime during the journey, or need a pink-padded room to live out the rest of his life should he complete the trip. (I am writing this column in the corner of a pink-padded room dressed in a strait jacket.)

As sweet and innocent as my kids are, and as much as I am proud of them, I have a bit of a

"Nobody heard anything, nobody saw anything," a frustrated Varnell said.

He said more arrests are possible, and that the incident is still under investigation.

"There's more to this than we know," he said.

Varnell added that although the shooting involved gang members, there is no evidence of gang activity in Hancock County. He said a "loosely-knit" gang formed about a year ago that was what he called "in the beginning stages."

He said the induction for the gang was "burglary and having sex with teen-age girls."

But he added that between the Waveland and Bay St. Louis police departments, and the Hancock County Sheriff's Office, the gang was quickly "busted wide open." Those involved are either in jail or in (state training schools)," he said. "We haven't heard any more on those."

"It wasn't like anything you have in the big cities," Varnell said. "They don't have turfs."

Varnell said intelligence from the department's undercover officers indicate no further gang activity.

Fifteen Waveland residents were arrested in a major drug roundup last week, but the chief said those involved acted independently.

"Ninety percent of the people are (selling drugs) for the little bit of money they get out of it to keep up their own habits," he said.

He said his office has received reports that there "may be one person" supplying the small dealers in the county. He said the drugs are coming from New Orleans, Houston, Gulfport and other large urban areas.

but we have no stipulations, no restrictions. I don't feel like giving unlimited phone use to eight different people."

Smolensky objected to Fleuriet's allowance proposal, saying that if "an individual would abuse the phone use, it will be taken away."

Records show that the city's cellular bill for May was $469.56. City officials said the bill was higher than normal because of heavy use during the May flood.

Fleuriet had earlier objected to reimbursing Superintendent of Streets Keith Mitchell $129 for city use on his private cellular phone. Mitchell pays for his own phone, but is reimbursed by the city for calls on official business.

Fleuriet said he would like Mitchell to carry a pager, and when paged, locate the nearest phone. Smolensky and Mason strongly objected to Fleuriet's suggestion.

"That means (Mitchell) would have to be pulled off the job and go find a phone," Mason said. "Maybe we can use a pony to go get him."

"You take these shots; it's getting old," Smolensky told Fleuriet.

The board unanimously passed the addition of the two phones. However, it was agreed that a policy be discussed during the board's next workshop, scheduled Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. in the mayor's office.

Roadtripping with the gruesome twosome tough time when they are slung together in the backseat of a not too big car for a long period of time.

Hey, I can handle the constant "are we almost there?", and the sight of cheetos and sunflower seeds being catapulted from the back seat to the front. I can even take the constant arm pumping everytime an 18-wheeler was near in an attempt to get the driver to blow the horn. I don't even mind stopping every five minutes to allow young bladders to be satisfied even though it normally cost me a candy bar and a soda, just something else to be spilled in the car or melted in the back window.

It's that "he's touching me" and "tell him to move" and the constant fighting and picking at each other that sends me into orbit. The high pitched screaming and yelling for 13 hours straight made my head feel like it was ready to ignite and blast off somewhere into space. For the first nine or 10 hours, I was handling it fairly well, looking forward to seeing that Diamondhead sign and relaxing in my own house. We had spent a pleasant weekend in Missouri visiting with cousins by the dozens and lounging around the fire with cold beverages and excellent food.

I don't remember exactly when it happened or what caused it, but I suddenly snapped. Those two loveable kids that I brag on constantly, and that I would not trade for a million bucks, suddenly went on sale for a couple of cents. I take great pride in the fact that I don't strike or spank my children. I've always talked to them like they were adults trying to explain the rights and wrongs about life and doing my best to teach by example.

The last thing I remember was that we were about four hours from home when I totally lost it. I screeched the Caddy to a halt, pulled off a major highway, and told the gruesome twosome to get out of the car. They looked at me with big brown eyes as if to say, "Dad are you sure?" "Just get the blanky blank out of my car" I demanded.

Well, it worked for at least the next 10 minutes. We made it home, they had their supper and the world was right again.

Praise for do-gooders this week goes out to you parents who find a way to discipline children without abusing them. Peace.

I had tried everything to this point to get them to be quiet. My right arm was getting tired sweeping back and forth through the back seat in an attempt at contacting any form of human flesh. Bribing them only worked for two or three minutes and yelling at them wasn't working at all.

So there we were on a busy road with cars and large trucks zooming by us and me standing at the rear of the vehicle with my arms crossed, smoking furiously on a Salem, trying to cool down. The gruesome twosome were standing in the front of the Caddy much in the same position with the exception of the cigarette.

After some time I strolled up to the front, cars still whizzing by, and began shaking my finger in their faces like a madman threatening them with their life.

"You're gonna get in the car, you're not going to look at each other, talk to each other, or even think about each other, and if you're lucky enough to make it home, you are going straight to bed without supper," I demanded.

Well, it worked for at least the next 10 minutes. We made it home, they had their supper and the world was right again.

Praise for do-gooders this week goes out to you parents who find a way to discipline children without abusing them. Peace.

Seven Bay homeowners receive home grants

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Housing rehabilitation grants to seven Bay St. Louis home owners were approved Thursday by City Council, despite a technical glitch.

The work totals $122,567 for sprucing up homes on Sycamore, Washington and St. George streets. The package is the first phase of a $350,000 program funded through the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development.

Bids for the first phase were opened June 20. Garrett Construction Corp. was the low bidder, although officials said the firm didn't use the proper bid form in making the offer.

Instead, the company mailed eight separate envelopes containing bid quotations atop eight worksheets, Mayor Eddie Favre said.

The mayor, city attorney John Scafide and consultants handling the program, however, said council should waive that irregularity since Garrett's bid was properly filed in every other respect. It was some $21,000 less than the next lowest bid.

One of the grant recipients is a city employee: Curtis Quate, the municipal animal control officer. Officials said he filed for the grant before becoming a city employee.

Walker ordered a test for Lizzie to determine the validity of the facilitator. However, Gerry Richardson refused to allow her daughter to take the test.

Since facilitation was not an issue during the 1992-93 school year, Gerry Richardson and her attorney, American Civil Liberties Union attorney Harry Yost of Gulfport, shifted the focus to that point. Their claim was the services and techniques provided to Lizzie during that time were not adequate.

Yost claimed Thursday that during his client's second year of education (Lizzie was ungraded at the time), she was "deprived of meaningful education. She got virtually no benefit."

Hearing officer David Walker, a professor at the University of Southern Mississippi, said in a previous hearing that he found progress for the last two school years, depending on the validity of a facilitator. A facilitator is a machine that has been developed in the past few years designed to help autistic people communicate.

Plan

Point area that is an undeveloped, but proposed, casino site.

Monday, she presented the revised version and ran straight into a hornet's nest of controversy.

Council member James Thrifiley said Fox had erred in not changing the "resort district" limits. "We specifically stated the casino district would be Bay Cove (Casino Magic). Beyond that would be a resort area and not a casino district, so as not to conflict with state law."

Council member Charles Scianca, however, contended that city attorneys believe such a one-casino district would indeed violate state law.

And, Scianca said, council members have "bogged down" in the review process, thinking that their individual comments will be adopted as the final proposal. "We can't continue to go over and over this thing," said Scianca. "We've bogged down trying to decide what we decided."

His weren't the only words of frustration. Council member Tad Black said he frankly hadn't read the revised version page for page -- and didn't intend to. "I'm not going to waste anymore of my time to sit down for hours and read that and go back and see what somebody else changed," said council member Tad Black of the latest version.

But members of the Bay St. Louis Community Association had read the new version, page by page, and had analyzed additions and deletions from the original version.

Association co-chairman Richard McCollough presented a long list of those changes, many of which diluted protections on residential property, he said.

Editing the first version of the plan, McCollough said, amounted to "taking references to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness out of the Declaration of Independence ... The spirit of this thing seems to have been kind of destroyed."

Fox said revisions were based on recommendations from city staff and her staff, as well as council's own comments in previous workshops. Most of the revisions, council was told, were made at the suggestion of city attorney John Scafide.

Black at one point suggested scrapping the revised proposal altogether, and sending the original draft to Planning and Zoning for action. That action, however, would have effectively cut out all revisions that were based on council's comments.

Fox suggested sending both drafts to the Planning and Zoning Commission. "I'm at the point now where it really doesn't matter," said Black in a workshop Wednesday. "But I think we're just spinning our wheels."

During Thursday's regular meeting, Black said he plans to seek revisions of the plan at the commission level concerning land use proposals in Ward 4, which he represents. One property which was purchased for commercial development, he noted, is designated for residential use in the new land use plan.

And he objects to the plan's proposal to create some multi-family zoning where single-family residential zoning now exists.

Mayor Eddie Favre said the proposed land use map which is on display in the City Hall Annex will be considered by the Planning and Zoning Commission as well as the text of the overall plan. Once adopted by council, Favre said, the map will be the foundation of the city's new zoning ordinance.

Bay Explorer graduates

The Naval CB Base Theatre was the setting Saturday, June 17, as friends and relatives saw 18 Bay St. Louis Law Enforcement Explorers graduated from the Gulfport Police Department's Law Enforcement Explorer Academy, along with more than 200 others from different law enforcement agencies from five states.

Graduation ceremonies were the culmination of a week of hard work for the young people, which included strict military discipline, PT, classes in criminal law, police history, crime scene investigations, traffic stops, public relations, firearms training and diversity training, among others.

In his closing remarks, Corporal Jeff LeDuff of Baton Rouge Police Department, senior training instructor at the Academy, stated, "I told these young people a week ago that they had a beast that lives inside them. I told them that if they controlled that beast, they could be anything they wanted to be, do anything they wanted to do. They learned how to control that beast while they were here, how to succeed, and they will never forget what they learned. They will be our future leaders."

Graduates of the Basic Explorer Academy included Theodore Adams, Charles Armstrong II, Matthew Clark, Mary Ida Girtman, Roger Girtman, Wesley Griffith, Seth Johnson, Larry Kaigler, Tracy Melbourne, Jeremy Noll, Jennifer Piazza, Derick Sellier, Tommy Thornton and Willie Whavers.

Graduating from the Level I Advanced (second year) Class were Scott Courrige, George Piazza and Ben Taylor.

Rick Reynolds graduated the Level II Advanced Training (third year) Class. This completes the training for Reynolds, and he will be recommended for the Youth Staff for the next Academy by the unit advisor and chief of police.

According to Officer Joe Kepfer, Reynolds will be attached to the Reserve Police Force next month so he can gain a year's experience and training to become a member.

Special commendations were awarded during the ceremony by Gulfport Police Chief George Payne. They included Ben Taylor, overall outstanding Explorer for Level I; Scott Courrige, second place shooting trophy for Level I; and Jennifer Piazza, most improved Explorer and third place shooting trophy for Basic Class.

Recognition was also given Jennifer Piazza on Friday night when she was named to the "Dream Team" by LeDuff and other Academy staff members. In an informal ceremony held in the barracks, Piazza and other initiates were sent to do PT in the showers while fully clothed, then given personal invitations to return to the Academy next year.

LeDuff said, "Every year we watch the Basic Class to see who is outstanding. These are the young people who will go places and do things during their lives. They are the top, select few who have accomplished the most in the least time with the minimum amount of supervision."

Ribbons with first year stars were presented to the graduates by Debbie McNeil, representing her husband, Chief Frank McNeil, who was out of town.

In addition she presented second year stars to Level I graduates and a third year star to Rick Reynolds.

McNeil also presented shooting ribbons to Courrige, Griffith, Piazza and Sellier. Outstanding Explorer ribbons were presented to Taylor and Piazza.

McNeil said, "The Chief expresses his regrets at not being able to be here today, but he wants each of you to know that you are in his thoughts and that he is proud of the job you have done. He also wishes to thank Officer Kepfer and the other members who serve as advisors for all they have done in helping you to reach this goal."

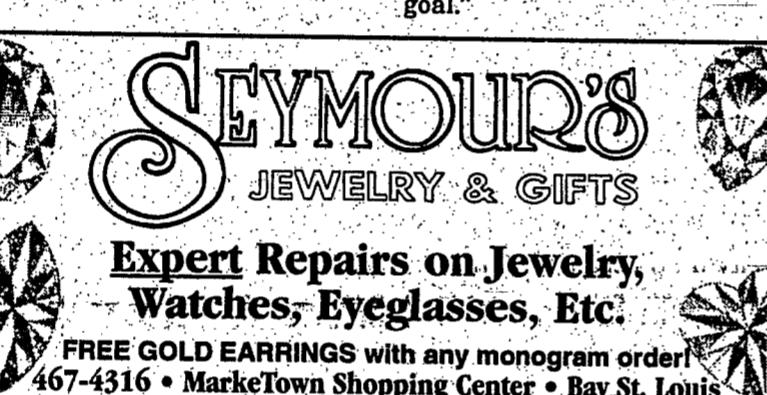

If a fire occurs:

• You and your family should exit as fast as possible, but always together. Have two planned escape routes in case one pathway is smoky or on fire.

• Have a way of accounting for all of the occupants in the house.

• Maintain your house and appliances. Check your appliances regularly for any kind of loose wires or buildup of dust around coils or vents. Also, do not store anything near heat-producing appliances, Rosenhan advises.

• Get rid of your trash promptly. Do not let any "junk" pile up in one room.

1995 Faulkner Conference to focus on cultural context

The 1995 Faulkner and Yoknapatawpha Conference will provide scholars with an intriguing academic frontier to explore: "Faulkner in Cultural Context."

The annual conference is set July 30-Aug. 4 at the University of Mississippi, where it is sponsored by Center for the Study of Southern Culture and Department of English. The highly respected program, which enjoys international participants, is entering its 22nd year at Ole Miss.

William Faulkner is perhaps best-known for his creation of Yoknapatawpha County, the mythical community loosely based on north Mississippi society, which the Nobel Prize-winning author made real for legions of literature lovers.

However, even though Faulkner, as "sole owner and proprietor of Yoknapatawpha County," manipulated its characters and events to communicate his themes, the writer could not be immune to surrounding cultural influences. His fictional landscape was translated from real-life experiences, reflecting a functioning community of class, race, gender, economic and political factors.

How much of his observations did Faulkner draw from his "native soil" for his purposes as a writer and how much was his vision affected by the environment? It's just the sort of chicken-and-egg riddle scholars love to explore, and just the question the conference will address.

Despite the virtual libraries written about Faulkner's fictional world, there has been surprisingly little attention to him as a product of his culture. It's no longer just a question of whether Faulkner made use of certain aspects of north Mississippi.

Clearly he took situations and characters from the local scene," said Dr. Donald Kartiganer, Howry Professor of Faulkner Studies and director of the conference.

The larger question for this event is how environmental elements affected his writings. I think we will find that cultural context was truly a powerful and effective force. It is woven through his work more subtly than even he would like to admit."

Dr. Dan Williams, chair of the Ole Miss Department of English, concurred, saying,

"There has been significant critical discussion of the relationship between literature and culture in the past decade, and this conference will provide important perspective on the issues that affected Faulkner's life and works."

The 1995 conference will focus on a variety of cultural issues related to Faulkner's writings through lectures and discussions by literary scholars and sessions on teaching Faulkner. Topics include: proletarian fiction, the psychology of paternalism, military culture, the writer and post-Confederate Faulkner's history: sources and interpretations, and racial issues.

Nationally recognized American literature scholar Savyan Bercovitch will open the conference with his address "A Literary Approach to Culture," Sunday at 8 p.m. in the School of Education auditorium.

Bercovitch — the Charles Carswell Professor of English and American Literature at Harvard University — has written or edited a dozen works, including "The Puritan Origins of the American Self," "The American Merman," "The Office of the Scarlet Letter" and the first volume of the new "Cambridge History of American Literature."

In 1994-95 he was the Times-Mirror Visiting Professor of American Literature at the Huntingdon Library.

Prior to Bercovitch's address, a 1 p.m. reception will open the University Museum's exhibition of "Square Art: Images of the Oxford Town Square," paintings and photos of Oxford's Square, followed by "Voices from Yoknapatawpha," a series of dramatic readings from Faulkner's work at 3 p.m. in the School of Education auditorium.

At 5 p.m., winners of the perennial popular sixth annual Faux Faulkner contest will be announced on the grounds of Rowan Oak, Faulkner's home — which is owned and maintained by Ole Miss.

The contest, coordinated by Dean Faulkner Wells, the author's niece, is sponsored by American Airlines American Way magazine, Yoknapatawpha Press, the Faulkner Newsletter and the university.

Other events designed to give participants a glimpse of Faulkner's environment include discussions by his friends and families, tours of north Mississippi on Tuesday, a picnic at Rowan Oak on Wednesday, and exhibitions and films relating to the author's life and work.

One of the most gratifying aspects of the Faulkner Conference is that it consistently draws not only scholars who have spent their lives examining his work, but also readers who are just beginning to discover Faulkner. They all gain something from this event.

The 1995 topic is especially important because it will allow participants to even further immerse themselves in Faulkner's culture. There's no better place to do that than the University of Mississippi," said Dr. Gerald Walton, interim vice chancellor for academic affairs.

The registration fee is $150 for students, $175 for Friends of the Center for the Study of Southern Culture and $200 for other participants.

The fee includes admission to all conference events, a buffet supper on opening day, a bus tour of the area, the picnic and a closing reception.

For more information about the conference or to register, call the Center for the Study of Southern Culture at (601) 232-5993.

First at State Science Fair

Kyla Gutierrez, an eighth grade student at Hancock Junior High, won first place at the recently held State Science Fair in Jackson. Gutierrez project, titled "Are Birds Affected by Colors in their Environment," also was selected as overall winner on the school level and first place winner in District 6 Regional, which qualified her project for state competition. A resident of Diamondhead, Gutierrez studied the five species birds found in her neighborhood during the month of January. Bird seed was placed on different colored areas, and consumption was measured daily to determine which colors were attracting the birds and/or which colors seemed to deter the birds. Blue proved to be the most attracting color, while red kept the birds away. Gutierrez, daughter of Larry and Vicki Gutierrez, is also president of the Junior Beta Club and a member of the varsity Hawk cheerleaders.

Tips for building children's esteem

How can parents and professionals help ensure that children will be responsible for their education, leisure time use and overall well-being?

Dr. Robert B. Brooks, assistant professor of psychology at Harvard Medical School, believes that adults can help by fostering children's self-esteem. He says children will have greater self-esteem if they feel a sense of ownership and responsibility for their experiences.

Many children don't have that feeling. They think in terms of "I have to go there. I have to do this. I have to do homework." It is important to their success and self-esteem that they feel they have a personal, vested interest in their activities. Brooks offers three tips for fostering self-esteem.

1. Provide the freedom to make mistakes.

One roadblock to feeling vested is not having the freedom to make mistakes. Adults should admit they make mistakes and talk about the nature of making mistakes — the fear, the intimidation and what it does to people. It is a fear that interferes with emotional development and with trying new things.

Brooks recommends that adults ask children what they think are appropriate actions to take when people make a mistake.

"Ask them, should we insult them and make fun of them?" Chances are children will answer no. An open discussion of their fears can teach children that mistakes are normal and are part of learning.

Children with good self-esteem seem to believe that mistakes are experiences to learn from rather than be defeated by.

Children who do not perceive mistakes that way feel helpless. Thus, their mistakes really to turn out badly.

Brooks says these children become class clowns, class bullies, they retreat, they use drugs, they become self-destructive. It's learned helplessness — that feeling that regardless of what I do, I cannot bring about positive change.

2. Help them make a contribution.

Self-esteem stems from feeling valued. Finding that island of competency and offering ways for children to contribute can help them build self-esteem. The feeling that you are contributing is very powerful.

"Many children and adolescents are drowning in an ocean of inadequacy. They feel they are not competent," Brooks says. "I believe every child in the world has at least one small island of competency, one area which can serve as a source of pride."

Brooks tells about a little boy who sat in the bushes every day and refused to go into the school. The boy said he liked bushes better than he liked school. Brooks asked the boy what he enjoyed doing.

The boy said that he really liked caring for his pet dog. So the school principal invited the child to care for the school's pet rabbit.

"This kid who thought he had nothing to contribute wrote a manual on taking care of pets," says Brooks. "By the end of the school year this kid had lectured to every class in school, and he told me the bushes were not exciting anymore."

3. Give children a choice.

Children surely will not develop a sense of ownership and responsibility if other people always decide what children will do and when and how they'll do it. Real choices, appropriate to children's ages, also permit them to experiment, make mistakes and learn in non-threatening situations.

"Anything can be a choice," Brooks points out. "Anything can be a decision. I read one article that said if you give kids a choice of writing in blue ink or black ink they'll write more than if you just tell them to write."

Collect past due child support through tax intercept

The Mississippi Department of Human Services Division of Child Support Enforcement announced that $10.6 million was collected in past due child support intercept of state and federal income tax refunds due absent parents for tax year 1993. For tax year 1994, collections already total over 10.5 million.

According to Carolyn Bridgers, director of the Division of Child Support Enforcement, many families who could benefit from this service have not made application.

She urged families not receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) to contact their County Department of Human Services Child Support Office for information and the necessary application forms.

The tax offset service is free to all families who are receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children or Medicaid only as administered through the Department of Human Services.

College tuition grant deadline extended

The deadline for students to file applications for Mississippi Resident Tuition Assistance (MTAG) and Mississippi Eminent Scholars (MESG) grants has been extended to Aug. 1 by the Mississippi Postsecondary Education Financial Assistance Board.

The board extended the deadline after noting the number of applicants was far less than had been expected, said Tom Hood.

director of financial aid at the University of Mississippi.

Officials blamed the relatively low number of applicants on the new law, not being passed until March, with new forms being distributed in May.

"Our students who will gain the most from the extension are those who are currently enrolled at Ole Miss," said Hood. "Most of the incoming freshman and transfer students will have already completed the paperwork with the help of counselors."

Those students filing applications after July 1 may be subject to a prorating if funding requests exceed the state's $19.9 million appropriation, said the director. Expenditures for both the MTAG and MESG are currently estimated to be around $14 million.

To request forms or for other information, call the Ole Miss Financial Aid Office at (601) 232-7175.

In addition, other families may obtain this service as recipients of non-AFDC Child Support Services upon payment of a one-time application fee of $25. Bridgers stated that interested persons should provide all required information by July 31, 1995, and earlier if at all possible since additional paper work may be involved. Child Support Enforcement will then process documents necessary to intercept possible tax refunds for tax year 1995.

Other requirements for application include: 1) past due child support amounts must be verified and must be $500 or more; 2) absent parents' verified Social Security number must be provided; and 3) a copy of the court order that established the support obligation must be provided.

Alimony can be collected through tax intercept for Non-AFDC child support service cases when the related child support obligation is being enforced by MDHS and other criteria are met.

Business Review

Advertisorial

Hubbard's Waveland Hardware Store has all your hardware needs in one convenient location, but that's not the only reason customers have made the store their preferred place to shop for hardware items and building materials.

It is not only because they carry a large selection of high quality, affordable hardware items, it's the service and friendliness of the knowledgeable staff that keeps customers coming back.

Owners, David and Richard Hubbard, along with their staff of Robert Poston, P.J. Mauffray, Jason Mauffray, Brian Erickson, and Steven Mauffray, make it their business to ensure customer satisfaction. The Hubbards have done just that since 1950, when their father established the hardware store in Bay St. Louis. In 1953 the store began carrying building materials and was moved to its present location in Waveland. The store has remained in the family since that time. David and Richard's mother ran the store from 1965 until they took over in 1985.

Aside from the many hardware items and building materials, Hubbard's carries a large selection of paints and varnishes and offers free computerized color matching with thousands of colors available.

You may have keys made or materials cut while you browse the store. Electrical, plumbing and garden supplies can also be found all under one roof.

For one stop hardware shopping, be sure to visit Hubbard's Waveland Hardware located at 615 Nicholson Avenue in Waveland. They are open Monday through Saturday from 8:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. You may call 467-4494 for more information.

Saddle up, it's almost rodeo time

August will mean more than warm sunshine and beaches on the Mississippi Coast because professional rodeo athletes are coming to Biloxi Aug. 4-6 for the Coast Coliseum's Ninth Annual Budweiser Mississippi Coast Championship Pro Rodeo.

Tickets will go on sale Monday, July 10. Prices will be $11 (reserved), $9 (general admission), and $5 (children), plus Ticketmaster fee. Competition will be held nightly at 8 and 2:30 p.m. on Sunday.

"The rodeo is a multi-faceted event for our community," Coliseum Director Bill Holmes said. "It incorporates sports, family entertainment and excitement all in one production. That's why it has remained so popular."

This year's rodeo will feature the best in family entertainment as professional rodeo contestants compete against the clock and award-winning stock from Circle D Rodeo Co.

The 100-plus riders — who will be competing for more than $30,000 in prize money — will take part in bull riding, bareback, saddle bronc, steer wrestling, calf roping, team roping, and, for women, barrel racing and freestyle bullfights.

The rodeo also will be the backdrop for the Miss Mississippi Rodeo Queen Contest. Females from across the state will compete in horsemanship, beauty and personality. The winner will be crowned on Sunday, the final day of the rodeo.

Other special highlights include rodeo sports commentator Johnny Pope of Alabama and eight-time "Act of the Year" nominee Tommy Lucia and his cowboy monkey and sheepdogs.

Rodeo competition will begin each night with the colorful pageantry of the grand entry, featuring a salute to America.

The Mississippi Coast Championship Pro Rodeo is one of more than 800 rodeos sanctioned by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association. The 10,000-member PRCA ensures the standards and professionalism of a growing sport that is growing in attendance

Get Into the Swim of Things This Summer

Summer is the most popular time of the year for inviting family and friends to the house to enjoy good company, weather, and food. While these get-togethers can be fun, they also can be repetitive. After all, how many times can you serve barbecue favorites — hot dogs and hamburgers? Something different can give the same old party new life.

Almost 1 billion pounds of canned tuna are consumed annually in the United States. This number is so high because tuna is convenient, tastes delicious, and is good for people to eat. It is great for last-minute, quick and easy meals, but also can get sophisticated for a night of entertaining.

Spice up those routine barbecues with enticing and delicious dishes that use tuna as the main ingredient. "The Tuna Fish Gourmet" (Villard Books), by Tracy Seaman, offers 75 innovative tuna recipes for tuna lovers everywhere. Dishes range from old favorites like Tuna Noodle Casserole and Classic Tuna Melt to creative new concoctions like Tuna Tapenade and Tuna "Crocque."

Aside from using tuna as an addition to summer meals, it is very nutritious.

When packed in water, tuna has 111 calories per 3-ounce serving and 168 calories per 3-ounce serving when packed in oil. It is high in protein, niacin, vitamins B-6, B-12 and D, and phosphorus. It is also rich in Omega-3 oils, which are believed by many doctors to guard against cholesterol buildup and cardiovascular disease.

Try the following tuna recipes as appetizers when entertaining this summer. They can add life to any barbecue and taste delicious.

TUNA COCKTAIL

Makes 8 servings

Tuna goes Southwestern in this easy appetizer — a great quick fix to serve with drinks. Use the best quality salsa you can find in your local market.

NACHOS WITH TUNA, JALAPENO PEPPERS AND CHEESE
Makes 2 to 4 servings

Smear the cream cheese over the bottom of a 7-inch shallow bowl or an 8-inch oval gratin. Spoon the flaked tuna evenly over the cheese. Spoon the salsa on top. Serve immediately, with water crackers or tortilla chips.

ed and the chips are hot, about 5 minutes, turning the pan as necessary for even cooking. Serve immediately.

RIBBON SANDWICHES

Makes 18 finger sandwiches

Stripes of light and dark bread alternate with a tasty tuna filling flecked with green chives to create an attractive choice for a party platter or buffet table.

NACHOS WITH TUNA, JALAPENO PEPPERS AND CHEESE

Makes 2 to 4 servings

The recipe calls for a moderate topping of chiles. Add more or less depending on how hot you like it. Serve nachos with sour cream and guacamole or warm refried beans.

TORTILLA CHIPS
Makes 8 servings

Lightly salted or unsalted

1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese, slightly softened

1 (6-ounce) can solid white tuna in oil or water, drained and flaked

1/2 cup mild salsa

Water crackers or tortilla chips, for serving

1 (6-ounce) can solid white tuna in oil, drained and flaked

2 tablespoons mayonnaise

1/4 teaspoon fresh lemon juice

1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

2 tablespoons minced fresh chives

6 slices of firm-textured white bread

6 slices of firm-textured whole-wheat bread

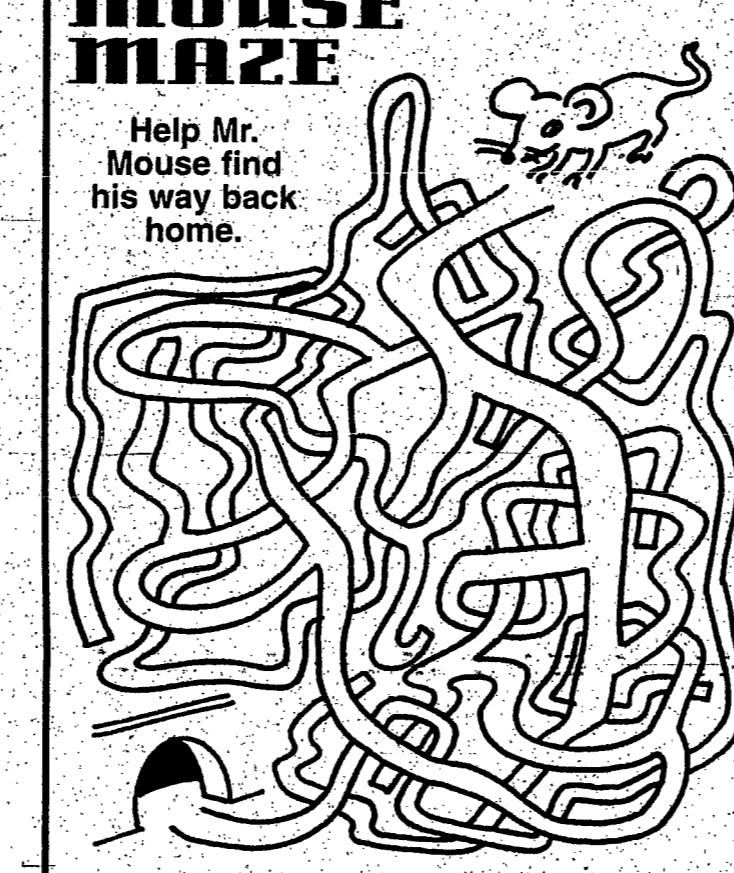

1. In a food processor, combine the tuna, mayonnaise, lemon juice and pepper. Process until relatively smooth, scraping down the sides once or twice, about 30 seconds. Add the chives and pulse briefly to combine. Transfer to a small bowl.

2. Spread 1 rounded tablespoon of the tuna mixture on 4 of the white bread slices and 4 of the whole-wheat slices. Pile them up, alternating wheat and white, and top with a contrasting slice of plain bread. There will be 3 stacked sandwiches. (The recipe can be made to this point up to several hours ahead; wrap and refrigerate.)

3. Using a serrated knife, remove the crusts, then cut each sandwich into 6 slices 1/2 inch wide. Arrange on a tray and serve.

Summer means long, hot and lazy days, far removed from the distant memory of school and homework, a time to relax and reflect. A time to participate in one of the oldest rites of summer, fishing! Eight-year-old Ricky Burge and 12-year-old Brandon Young, both of Bay St. Louis, took advantage of the great weather recently to try their luck on the Ulman Avenue Pier. With the 'postcard' backdrop of picturesque downtown Bay St. Louis, the boys reported a catch of croakers, flounder, red fish and stingray. (Echo staff photo by Randy Ponder)

Fishing rodeo a great success

BY JIM MANESS

From the starting gun on June 30 to the finale on July 4, this year's Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo was a resounding success. The rodeo has been held annually since 1947 and has grown in popularity each year. This year, officials reported more than 3,000 entrants.

Hancock County residents were well represented in the rodeo from fishermen, to fairgoers, to four young ladies who were members of the Queen's Court. The four ladies were: Jessica Fountain representing Waveland; Megan Prats representing Diamondhead; Brandi Favre representing Hancock County; and Shannon Scharp representing Bay St. Louis.

George Wright Jr. was the weighmaster. He said it was a good rodeo in the number of fish that were brought in to the scales. He was especially impressed with the size of some of the freshwater entries, like the eight-pound bass and the 98-pound garfish.

Many of the rodeo officials marveled at the tenacity of the fishermen. The seas were quite rough several times but the fishermen braved the elements.

Quite a few fishermen made their first-ever fishing trip during the rodeo. Justin Jackson of Harrison County made his first fishing trip and landed the second place King Mackerel for his efforts. This was his first and only fish.

This year the prizes were more plentiful than ever. Prizes were awarded every day in addition to the grand prizes awarded at 8 p.m. on July 4.

The grand finale of what is billed as the "World's Largest Fishing Rodeo" was a 15-minute fireworks display on July 4.

Sixteen students from the Mississippi Gulf Coast attended a session of the Golden Eagle Soccer Camp at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Two week-long camps, open to girls and boys ages 9-18, were held back to back June 11-21. The camps focused on giving players individualized training in fundamental soccer skills.

Black bear cub on exhibit at Jackson Zoo

A North American black bear cub will be on temporary exhibit at the Jackson Zoo to the end of September. Visitors can see this cub in the previous black leopard exhibit.

The four-month-old 15-pound bear cub is from the Potter Park Zoo in Lansing, Mich., where he was hand-reared. The mother of the cub was killed, and the cub was rescued by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

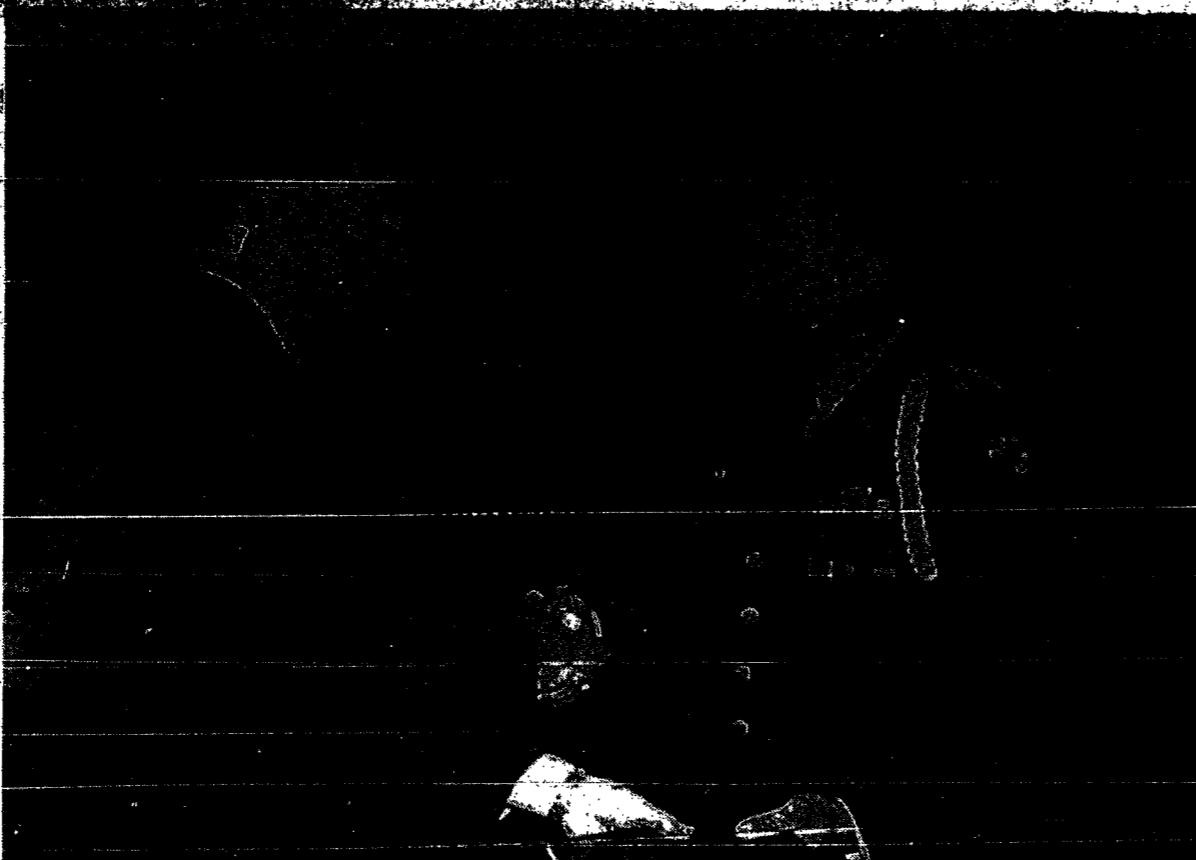

The Jackson Zoo will act as a holding facility until the bear cub is transported to Bear Country USA, which highlights bears and other North American wildlife, located on 220 acres in South Dakota.

Black bears were hunted extensively in the past. Now partially protected in the U.S. and Canada, black bear populations in national parks are increasing. However, poaching black bears for trophies and the Asian medicinal trade remains a problem.

The popularity of the black bear can be traced to President Theodore (Teddy) Roosevelt, for whom "teddy" bear is names.

The Jackson Zoo is open daily 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Admission rates are: Adults, $4; children 3-12, $2; children 2 and under, free. For information, call 352-2580.

One lure limit? This pro likes a lizard

Professional bass fisherman Larry Nixon normally takes as much tackle to a tournament as anyone, but if limited to just one lure in competition, his choice is easy: he wants a plastic lizard.

"The lizard is really an extremely versatile lure that can be fished throughout the year," notes the Evinrude Outboard Pro Staff angler.

"You can fish it in both shallow and deep water, in thick cover or open water, and you can rig it different ways with different equipment."

"Over the past three or four years, a plastic lizard has actually been instrumental in winning nearly every major tournament, regardless of the lake or the time of year."

Although plastic lizards are now made in a variety of sizes and colors, Nixon prefers a larger six-inch model because it seems to attract larger bass.

"If you use a lizard that floats well and has a lot of swimming leg and tail action, it will easily attract bass weighing more than 10 pounds," he explains.

"I know big lizards have caught some of the heaviest bass the past three years during our tournaments on Sam Rayburn, and I read recently where a fisherman using a plastic lizard on Lake Fork in Texas caught a 14-pounder."

"It's definitely a big bass."

Nixon fishes plastic lizards with both Texas rigs and Carolina rigs, depending primarily on the amount of cover present.

"I'll use a Texas rig lizard with a slip sinker when I'm flipping or pitching extremely thick brush and cover," he explains. "You can rig a lizard weedless and present it right in the middle of the heaviest cover around."

"When I'm fishing more open water and the cover is scattered, such as isolated clumps of grass or hydrilla, I'll generally fish the lizard on a Carolina rig," he says.

"I'll use a heavy three-quarter or even a one-ounce sinker and a three- to four-foot ladder so the lizard actually floats just above the bottom."

Nixon especially likes the lizard and Carolina rig when he first begins searching for bass during tournament practice because the lizard looks natural in the water.

"When bass are not on a particular ambush point, a Carolina rig lizard really looks like a live bait," he says.

"Bass live in open areas more than we realize, and when they are in the open, they're harder to catch."

"That's why a lizard is so effective in drawing strikes from those fish. It looks just like a natural prey."

Crosby Arboretum begins landscape design series

Thursday, July 13, at 7:30 p.m., The Crosby Arboretum begins a new series of lectures on landscape design. The first lecture, New Plants for Southern Gardens, is directed to an examination of the nearly 2,500 native plants of our region, many of which are superior to more popular plants now being used in our gardens.

Noted lecturer and plant design authority, Bob Brzuszek, says that there are many seldom used plants that are great additions to any garden.

Other courses in the series will include Plant Architecture and Arrangement on Aug. 3.

Hillyer House nominated in craft program

Hillyer House Inc., Pass Christian, was honored as one of 400 craft retailers in America nominated in a national Craft Retailer Awards Program, at a reception and dinner May 18 at the Boston Park Plaza Hotel.

The ceremony was held in conjunction with the Buyers Market of American Craft, a trade show where artists exhibit their original designs in production and limited edition work to craft retailers from across the country.

Ballots were collected from more than 2,500 professional craft artists throughout the country by NICHE magazine, a trade publication for craft retailers and sponsor of the awards program. Criteria for selection included performance in buying, payment, marketing, store presentation and community outreach.

In making the presentation, Wendy Rosen, publisher of NICHE magazine, stated, "It's important that the craft community recognizes that excellence in craft retailing is what makes our industry stronger."

The Associate in Arts degree program is designed to provide a variety of educational experiences which acquaint the student with the liberal arts disciplines of writing, mathematics, humanities and fine arts, science, social science, communication, and physical education. In general, academic students intend to transfer their work completed at Pearl River to a college or university and have the work apply toward a Bachelor of Arts or a Bachelor of Science degree.

■ TECHNICAL students are students who are taking classes that lead to the Associate of Applied Science (AAS). The Associate of Applied Science degree combines a foundation of basic academic courses with intensive training in a specific area of instruction, and course work is designed to provide the graduate with the specific technical training needed for employment after completion of the degree.

■ VOCATIONAL students are students who are taking classes that lead to the Certificate of Proficiency. The Certificate of Proficiency is a validation that the student has completed an intensive, full-time schedule of training in a specific skill area.

In order to be admitted as an Academic, Technical or Vocational student, the following documents must be submitted:

>Pearl River application for admission.

>Official transcript from an accredited high school indicating date of graduation or GED test transcript indicating passing.

>Official transcript from every college attended.

>ACT scores for academic or technical students (See Admission Testing below).

Admission Testing

■ Students who are taking courses in an Academic or Technical program must furnish results of the American College Test (ACT). All references to the ACT refer to the Enhanced version of the test. The Enhanced version of the ACT was administered beginning in October 1989. Students who completed the ACT prior to October 1989 may still use their results for admission purposes. ACT scores are used for placement in classes and for academic and technical counseling. (See Developmental Course Placement Criteria). There is no minimum score for general admission to the college; however, specific programs may require minimum scores for admission.

ACT scores are not required for vocational students. The Test of Basic Education (TABE) is administered to all vocational students prior to enrollment in vocational classes.

Transfer Admission

■ Any student may transfer from an accredited institution and expect to have consideration of previous academic experiences, provided he/she meets the admission requirements of Pearl River Community College stated under "General Admission." The following policies in regard to transfer work will apply:

1. Credit earned from an institution that is not regionally accredited will not be accepted.
2. Official copies of AP or CLEP scores must be provided by the student in order for them to be evaluated.
3. Transfer work is not posted to the Pearl River transcript until the student has completed at least 15 semester hours at Pearl River.
4. All credit earned at regionally accredited colleges is posted to the Pearl River transcript; however, acceptance of the work toward a degree is subject to the following considerations.
 - a. Course must be equivalent to Pearl River course in content, description, and length.
 - b. The grade in the transfer course must be a "C" or better. If the student's overall transfer average is above 2.00, a grade of "D" may be considered.
 - c. Technical or Vocational transfer work is subject to the approval of the program faculty and the Director of the Vocational/Technical center where the student wishes to enroll.

Transfer students seeking admission to the Associate Degree Nursing Program should review ADN Policy on Transfer Admission later in this section of the catalog.

Admission Notification

■ After the application is received, Pearl River develops an admission file on the student and begins correspondence indicating receipt of documents and/or deficiencies. All students, regardless of full- or part-time status, must meet admission requirements prior to registration for classes. A letter of acceptance or denial will be mailed to all applicants after all admission criteria has been met.

All students who have met admission requirements will be considered for admission to the college. Admission to the college does not guarantee admission to a specific program. Students must determine the requirements for admission to a specific program to see if they are eligible to enroll in that program.

Readmission

■ A student who has attended Pearl River Community College in any semester other than the most recent semester must apply for readmission to the college. A student seeking readmission should complete a new application and provide transcripts from all other colleges attended, if any, since his or her last admission to Pearl River. Students are readmitted based on their performance policies (honors, suspensions, probation) or transfer colleges.

Federal Financial Aid

■ This section explains the various types of financial assistance available to students.

■ Federal Pell Grant: Based on financial need and enrollment status (not required to be half-time). Award can range from $200 to $2300.

■ Federal Work-Study Program (FWS): Eligibility is based on financial need, other aid awarded, and availability of funds. Eligible students are employed in offices and departments on campus and are paid on a monthly basis. Students are limited to a maximum of two academic years of employment (four semesters) in addition to the summer terms before and after the freshman year.

■ Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP): Includes several different types of federally insured loans, funded from commercial banks and lending institutions. Students must be enrolled on at least a half-time basis to qualify. Repayment of principal and interest vary, depending on the specific program.

PEARL RIVER COMMUNITY COLLEGE

About PRCC

■ Pearl River Community College is in the midst of one of the most exciting and progressive periods of its long and rich history.

In 1922, the Mississippi Legislature passed Senate Bill No. 251 for support of junior colleges, and Pearl River gained the distinction of being the first junior college in Mississippi. Through the years, PRCC has become a true community college, steeped in tradition, with a vision for excellence.

A leader in education

PRCC has always assumed the leading role in educational and cultural growth of the community at large. Today, PRCC serves more than 3,500 students in more than 60 programs.

Diversity in course offerings

The range of programs offered at PRCC includes two-year associate of arts or science degrees, certificates of proficiency, and adult basic education. In addition, life enrichment courses, short courses, seminars, workshops and other educational opportunities are offered throughout the year.

Academic courses will transfer to colleges and universities throughout the nation. New courses are steadily being added to the already highly respected academic program. Dynamic new career programs are being developed to educate and train students to qualify for the jobs of today and tomorrow.

The location is ideal

PRCC is located in Poplarville, a city in South Mississippi with a population of about 2,800 -- an ideal setting for a community college. Poplarville is served by four major highways: Interstate Highway 59, and Highways 11, 26, and 53. The area is also served by the Greyhound Bus Company. Excellent highways make the college readily accessible to all parts of the supporting area.

It's a home away from home

PRCC is home away from home. It is large enough to do the job well, but small enough that each student remains an individual. No student at PRCC ever becomes just a number. Each student is a very special and important person.

Faculty are concerned, caring

The quality of the faculty is superior. Instructors have the experience, the background, and the education to make sure the student gets what he or she needs for the future --no matter if the future is a senior college or the working world.

Financial aid is available

A variety of grants, loans, and work-study programs are available for students with financial need. In addition, scholarships offered by institutional and private sources provide awards for outstanding academic ability, leadership, and performance in many areas. More information is outlined in the PRCC Student Financial assistance booklet or can be obtained by contacting the Financial Aid Office.

PRCC offers student housing

PRCC provides housing accommodations on campus for 500 full-time students. Students desiring to reserve living facilities must complete an application for housing.

Residence hall space will be reserved when a room reservation fee is paid. For housing information, contact the Office of Student Affairs.

PEARL RIVER COMMUNITY COLLEGE

PRCC students go online with America, the world

■ Pearl River Community College's Computer Science Department is online with America.

For several months now, PRCC students have been tapping into the CNN Newsroom and the Library of Congress. It's part of the connection with America Online.

Dr. Catherine Cotten, chair of PRCC's Academic Computer Science Department, said America Online gives students an assortment of educational tools that link current news with PRCC's curriculum.

"Tapping into the CNN Newsroom focuses on online forums and real-time online conferences," said Cotten.

Connecting with the National Geographic Society allows students to scan interesting news stories, from bizarre travel maladies to what makes dogs bark.

The Library of Congress online offers unprecedented electronic access to portions of formerly secret Soviet documents and other information from around the world.

America Online is open to all PRCC students and faculty members through the Computer Science Department. For more information, contact Dr. Cotten in the PRCC Science Building.

LEAP makes big strides

■ Mississippi's award-winning Project LEAP is making headlines of its own locally.

Twenty-four adult men and women have earned their GEDs since Pearl River Community College began the program in January 1994.

Project LEAP, the nation's only satellite-based literacy program, received the IDLCON Educational Programming Award from the International Distance Learning Conference (IDLCON) and the United States Distance Learning Association.

The program prepares individuals to take the GED test. It also provides job readiness training. PRCC's program now serves 38 learners from Lamar, Pearl River, Stone and Marion counties, said site coordinator Aleene Saucier.

"The mission of LEAP is to help learners obtain the skills needed to become gainfully employed, helping them enjoy a better life," said Saucier.

"About 15 of those students have gone on to pursue college educations at Pearl River Community College in fields including electricity, barbering, cosmetology and electronics," said Saucier.

In addition to the morning class, which meets from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., PRCC offers an afternoon class to meet the increasing demands, said Saucier.

Project LEAP meets in Hancock Hall on the PRCC campus. Because of its location next to PRCC's Life Improvement Center, students can exchange ideas with and get help from the Single Parent/Displaced Homemakers Program and the Gender Equity Program.

Project LEAP, now in its second year, is the combined brainchild of the Mississippi Department of Human Services JOBS Program, the Governor's Office for Literacy, Mississippi Cable Training Network, and the University of Mississippi.

Participants must be referred by the Mississippi Department of Human Services' JOBS program.

PEARL RIVER COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Instructor to participate in delegation to China

■ A Pearl River Community College computer instructor will be part of the Computer Education Delegation to China this fall.

Anne Applin of Hattiesburg will participate in a 15-day international exchange between Chinese and western computer instructors.

She will be the only Mississippian on the nine-member team.

Applin received the invitation from Dr. Harriet Taylor, associate professor of education and computer science at Louisiana State University. Taylor is the delegation leader.

The exchange will consist of meetings and informal discussions about computer education in China. Applin and other team members will visit schools and universities in Beijing, Hangzhou, and Shanghai. The purpose of the visit is to better understand the role of computers in Chinese education.

Team members will share ideas and work to develop worldwide links for professional support and development.

The Chinese Computer Federation and China's Ministry of Education asked the Citizen Ambassador Program of People to People in Spokane, Washington, to invite the team.

Applin will leave San Francisco on October 4 and return October 19.

The Citizen Ambassador Program is a key part of the People to People effort, created by President Dwight Eisenhower in 1956.

O'Connor lends an ear to PRCC students and faculty

■ Pearl River Community College students who may find themselves in stressful personal situations this fall will have a friendly shoulder to lean on.

Clinical Counselor Edward F. O'Connor of Hattiesburg offers a confidential ear to students needing academic or personal counseling.

He offers individual, family, group or marital therapy.

"My number one goal is to help students with problems they may have, and ultimately to stay in school," O'Connor said.

Students can get help when facing stressful life events, such as the transition from high school to college, to marriage, depression, domestic violence, substance abuse, or unexpected death or surgery.

O'Connor also holds workshops in the PRCC area that provide faculty, counselor and student training.

He conducted workshops on domestic violence, stress management, and effective communication this past year on campus.

O'Connor has a master's degree in marriage and family therapy. His wife, Deidra, is the clinical director of the Domestic Abuse Family Shelter in Laurel.

POPLARVILLE VOCATIONAL PROGRAMS

Students make the grade at the Learning Lab

■ Thirty minutes to several hours a week, using the Learning Lab's computer tutorials have helped PRCC students make the grade.

The tutorials are part of the Josten's Invest Learning System. The variety of tutorials are designed to enhance student performance in class.

"My grades are going up," said Joyce McDonald, a banking and finance major from Picayune. "The tutorials refresh my memory."

The system is designed to assess students' present level in any subject. As their skills increase, they automatically advance to the next level.

If a few lessons are too easy, the automatic branching system lets students jump ahead. Reinforcement lessons are provided if needed. The computers can even detect trouble areas where students may need instructor intervention.

This is accomplished without the intimidation some students feel with an instructor or tutor's assistance.

"It's discreet," said Julie Staggs, Learning Lab staff member. "Thirty students can work on all different levels, but everyone doesn't know what everyone else is doing."

"I retain more because I can keep going over it and over it," said Mandy Ladner, a social work major from Poplarville. "I like the extended hours. Plus I can do this on my own time."

In addition to Jostens, there are tutorials, such as history, that show an outline to read and then allows students to quiz themselves.

Nursing tutorials tell students if answers are correct or not and gives explanations in either case.

There are math tutorials that lead students step by step into a problem, then help them out if they get stuck. Others simply tell them the answer is wrong and go on to the next problem.

But all are designed to help students work toward independence.

"At first, I was kind of lost because I've been out of school so long," said Vanessa McNair, a banking and finance major from Lumberton. "But I'm getting back on track now. This helps put me up to date with my class."

Compton's Encyclopedia can be used like any other encyclopedia, except that students can take notes on the same computer and print them when finished. It's a great place to get ideas or additional information for a research paper.

The Compton's program also has an atlas that takes students to any country in the world, then lets them zoom in as close as they like.

The lab received a grant to add materials for meeting students needs who are developmental, on-level and above-level.

Besides computers, carrels are equipped for video viewing to supplement most courses available on campus, as well as films and audio cassettes.

Plans are under way to add ADAM and a package for anatomy and physiology. Experimental studies are being done on Computer Assisted Instruction to develop effective learning techniques and find out if this actually helps students learn.

The Learning Lab is located in the northwest wing of the Library and operates on a Title III Strengthening Institutions grant partially funded by the Department of Education and PRCC funds.

Biology workshop focuses on DNA and the O.J. trial

■ It's called deoxyribonucleic acid, DNA for short, and has been recently in the news during the O.J. Simpson trial.

Criminologists now have ways of DNA fingerprinting, using DNA samples gathered from cells of the hair, skin or blood of victims or those charged in a criminal case.

The use of blood samples in the Simpson case make some portions of the evidence against Simpson seem almost indisputable.

But the question still remains: How did Simpson's blood get there, according to Dr. Rosalina V. Hairston, a USM biologist, who is helping conduct a cell and molecular biology enhancement workshop on the PRCC campus during June.

Ten instructors and teachers from throughout the PRCC district are attending the workshop in the science building here where Norma Hammill, a PRCC biology instructor, is hosting the workshop.

The workshop will give area biology teachers hands-on experience with projects they can take to classrooms and show students practical applications illustrating recent discoveries in molecular biology, one being DNA fingerprinting.

And one of the most fascinating aspects of the workshop is that relating to DNA.

During the workshop students will be led through an exercise that will duplicate what criminologists have done with Simpson's blood: they will fingerprint, through prescribed scientific steps, a DNA sample.

However, the students' sample here will be from a bacterium, not anyone's blood. But the procedure will be the same, and the PRCC biology laboratory has all the scientific equipment needed to perform the fingerprinting demonstration, says Hammill.

"Essentially, it is the same procedure as that used in the Simpson trial," said Hammill.

The workshop is a joint project between PRCC and USM, conducted through what is called a Biology Leadership Team, composed of instructors Sara Samples of Sumrall High School, Angela Jones of Poplarville High, Patsy Pouncey of Oak Grove High, Aleta Sullivan of Hattiesburg High, Marvin Adams of Columbia High and Hammill and Dr. Hairston.

The workshop meets a day a week.

Workshop teacher-students include Lucretia Carpenter of North Forrest High, Myrtle Goff of Poplarville High, Sharon Necaise and Melinda Miller of Hancock High, Barry McPhail and Kathy Ann Baucum of PRCC.

According to Hammill, here's what the workshop will touch on as relates to DNA:

Each person's DNA is unique. The DNA molecule carries the genetic code for each person and determines one's uniqueness, the color of your hair, your eyes, how you talk and act.

The chances of two persons having the same DNA pattern are 1 in 30 billion; essentially the chance doesn't exist.

Through DNA fingerprinting techniques scientist can produce an X-ray of a person's DNA band pattern, as unique as a fingerprint, almost like a "bar code" for each individual on earth, says Hammill.

"It is this pattern that has the power to convict or eliminate a suspect," said Hammill.

PRCC's mission statement

■ Pearl River Community College is an open-admission, comprehensive public community college established to provide accessible, affordable, and quality educational opportunities for residents of Forrest, Hancock, Jefferson Davis, Lamar, Marion, and Pearl River counties in South Mississippi.

The college seeks to serve the educational needs of the community by providing:

- Academic transfer curricula for students seeking the first two years of instruction leading to a bachelor's degree.
- Vocational and technical training programs to prepare and upgrade students for careers to meet the needs of business and industry in the college district.
- Assistance for students to develop language and mathematical skills necessary for academic and career advancement.
- Student services such as counseling, financial aid, housing and transportation to facilitate and enhance students' educational experiences.
- Programs in areas such as fine arts, humanities, and athletics which enrich the cultural and recreational life of the college and the community.

Education is top priority

■ The faculty, staff and administration at Pearl River Community College never forget their primary function -- educating students.

At many colleges, instructors must juggle heavy class loads and are often involved in research projects, which means that teaching duties are sometimes left up to graduate assistants. At PRCC, all academic instructors hold at least a master's degree, and their only job is to work with students. The smaller student to teacher ratio also means that students get more individual attention here than at some larger schools.

Instructors at PRCC are demanding; they expect a lot from their students. But they are also understanding and helpful.

Admission to PRCC

■ Admission to Pearl River Community College can be accomplished in the following way:

- Complete an application for admission and return it to the Office of Admissions, Pearl River Community College, Station A, Poplarville, MS 39470.

Have a copy of your high school transcript sent directly to PRCC from the last high school attended. If you previously attended college, a copy of the official transcript must be sent to PRCC. An official transcript must be sent from every college attended.

Academic or technical students must send an official copy of ACT scores to the PRCC Admissions Office. Residual test scores furnished by other colleges will not be accepted. There is no minimum score required for admission; however, test scores will be used in counseling and placement.

Vocational students are required to furnish scores from the Test of Adult Basic Education (TABE). Contact the Vocational Counselor for a testing schedule for the TABE.

More information about financial aid, college housing, and student activities is available from the Office of Student Affairs, PRCC, Station A, Poplarville MS 39470 or by calling (601) 795-1215.

PRCC Forrest County Center helps meet community needs

Pearl River Community College is helping meet the demand for trained health care professionals in south Mississippi.

PRCC's main campus in Poplarville is home to both the Associate Degree Nursing program and practical nursing program, and the Allied Health Center is part of the Forrest County Center on Hwy. 49 South in Hattiesburg.

The Allied Health Center opened in August 1992 as one of the most modern facilities of its kind in the nation.

The center offers one and two-year technical and vocational training programs. Students can earn associate degrees as dental hygienists, medical laboratory technicians, occupational therapist assistants, physical therapist assistants and respiratory care technicians.

PROGRAM OFFERINGS

One-year programs offer certificates that qualify students to become dental assistants, surgical technicians and practical nurses.

A new program offered by PRCC is the Occupational Therapist Assistant program. The State Board for Community and Junior Colleges last summer approved Mississippi's only OTA course for PRCC.

The two-year rehabilitation training course will start this year at the Forrest County Center. It's a first for Mississippi and one of only 53 in the nation.

The course trains students in treating people of any age who have trouble functioning in daily life.

OTA graduates will earn an associate's degree in applied science. Graduates should enter the job market with an annual salary of about $20,000, advancing to about $35,000.

Occupational therapist assistants work in rehabilitation centers, home health agencies, acute care hospitals, physicians' offices, community mental health centers, psychiatric hospitals and orthopedic clinics.

Construction is underway for a $346,000 addition to the Allied Health Center for a new Occupational Therapist Assistant laboratory. The addition will house additional classrooms, a bookstore, student lounge and faculty offices.

STUDENT TRAINING

Students in PRCC's allied health programs gain valuable training under practicing professionals at clinical sites throughout Mississippi and in neighboring states. Clinical assignments allow the students to offer their services while gaining practical on-the-job training.

Graduates of PRCC's Physical Therapist Assistant program had jobs waiting for them when they completed the program.

"Our students will have a place to work when they graduate," said Dr. Larry Tuminello, PTA program director.

PRCC offers one of only three physical therapist assistant programs in Mississippi. PRCC received 170 applications for 20 slots.

The sophomores work at clinical sites in Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama, rotating every five weeks for three rotations. Training sites include hospitals, rehabilitation centers, nursing homes, home health agencies and private offices and clinics.

Physical therapist assistants work directly under the supervision of physical therapists. They help provide services to patients with a variety of neurological, musculoskeletal and cardiopulmonary problems resulting from illness and accidents.

PRCC's Dental Hygienist Program accepts patients three days a week as part of the students' training. Patients receive oral exams, x-rays, cleanings, fluoride treatments, sealants and oral hygiene instructions for a small fee.

Program Director Dr. Stan Hill and two registered dental hygienists supervise the students. Hill said the program does not try to compete with area dentists by providing services.

The training is similar in the Surgical Technician program. Students learn what it takes to help surgeons in the operating room. The course offers a one-year certificate and students may continue for an associate's degree, said Program Director Debbie Hinton.

Hinton teaches students the acceptable techniques that surgeons require. This includes passing instruments to doctors and handling sterile objects. Graduates qualify to work side-by-side with surgeons after completing their training. They then become eligible to take a national certifying exam given by the Association of Surgical Technologists.

ASSOCIATE DEGREE NURSING
A program that has received much attention since its beginnings in the 1960s is the Associate Degree Nursing at the college's main campus.

The ADN program, with the reputation as one of the finest two-year nursing programs in the nation, prepares students to become registered nurses.

The program was accredited again this year by the National League of Nursing and the Board of Trustees of the State Institutions of Higher Learning.

All students work at various clinical sites in Mississippi and Louisiana.

The program receives more than 300 entrance applications with 90 students being admitted each fall.

Construction will soon begin on a new 42,000 square foot, $3.6 million nursing and wellness facility.

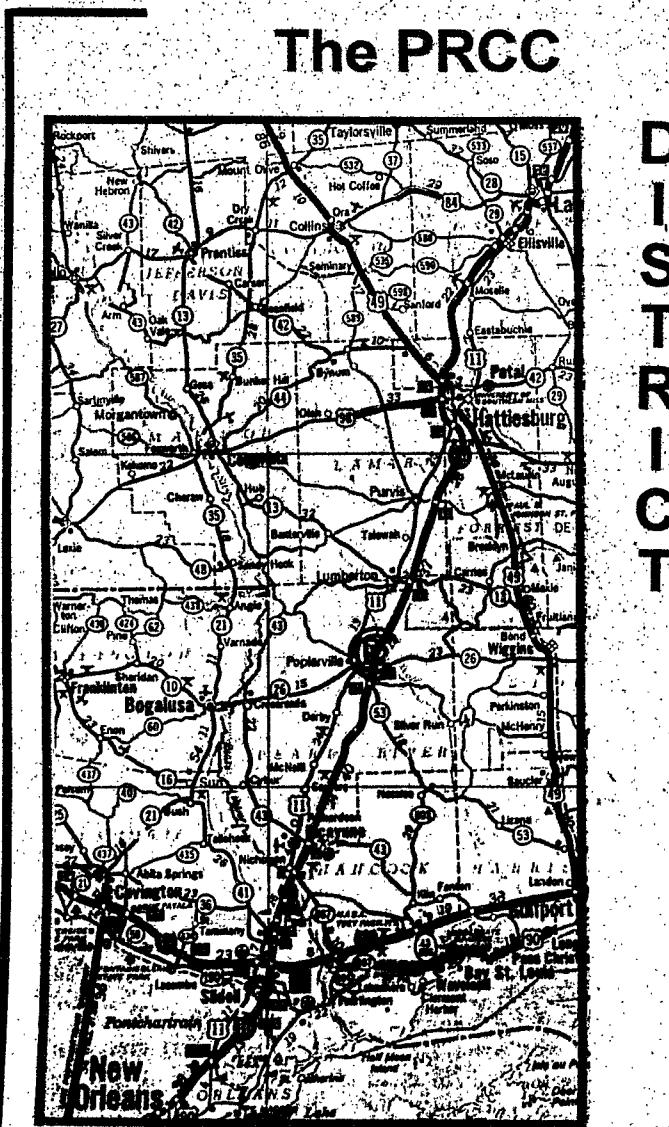

"Our goal is to increase the quantity of associate degree nursing graduates each year to reach a 100 percent increase," said ADN Program Director Peggy Dease.

"This will be matched with an increase in faculty to maintain our state and national standard of a one to 10 faculty-student ratio," said Dease.

Another goal is to provide a modern learning environment that simulates clinical experiences.

"These efforts will result in a facility that will be at the top of the class among American community colleges," said Dease.

Over the last three years, ninety-six percent of PRCC's nursing graduates officially became registered nurses after passing the national exam. Last year, 78 graduates took the exam under Mississippi's and Louisiana's state nursing boards. The test is the same throughout the nation.
